LEMOSHO ROUTE

8 Days / 7 Nights

Lemosho Route

Duration: 8 Days / 7 Nights

Type: Private Safari

Main Focus: Adventure

Country: Tanzania

Overview of the Lemosho route

Lemosho is a classic western approach with excellent scenery and one of the strongest acclimatization profiles on Kilimanjaro. It joins the busy southern circuit at Lava Tower and Barranco, then continues via Barafu to the summit.

It is often offered as 6-, 7-, or 8-day mountain programmes (plus hotel nights). The 7-day option (vehicle to high Shira) is the most popular balance of time on the mountain and summit success for many first-time trekkers.

Highlights include time on the Shira Plateau, the dramatic Barranco Wall, and iconic high-altitude vegetation such as giant groundsels. The route is inside Kilimanjaro National Park throughout.

Safety first: Expeditions are normally offered to participants aged 12–70 years. Confirm with your consultant if you are outside this range.

Expert recommendation

Lemosho is an excellent first Kilimanjaro route if you want strong acclimatization and great views. Shorter Lemosho schedules exist but suit trekkers with prior high-altitude experience; if you are new to altitude, favour 7 or 8 days on the mountain.

Regardless of itinerary, plan for solid general fitness, hydration, and honest communication with your guides about how you feel.

Summit success (typical)

Published statistics from major operators show that longer Lemosho itineraries often reach the highest reported summit success rates on the mountain, because of extra nights and “climb high, sleep low” opportunities. Exact percentages vary by season, group, and operator.

Day 2: Londorossi Gate to Shira 2 Camp

Your guide and mountain support crew meet you at the hotel. You then travel by vehicle (roughly 3–4 hours) to Kilimanjaro National Park's western entrance: Londorossi Gate. After permits and registration with the search-and-rescue service, you continue by off-road vehicle toward the high-altitude drop-off (about 3,414 m / 11,200 ft), with your first wide views of the Shira Plateau.

The walk from the drop-off to Shira 2 Camp has a moderate altitude gain and is not overly strenuous, which helps you begin acclimatizing. At camp, tents and dinner are prepared for you.

Please note: From this altitude onward:

- Drink 3–4+ litres of water daily, little and often.
- Discuss altitude medication with your doctor before travel; your coordinator can explain common approaches.
- At night, shallow breathing can mean less oxygen — report headache, nausea, or any illness to your guide immediately.

Trekking time: 5–6 hours | Distance: ~11 km (6.8 mi)

Day 3: Shira 2 to Lava Tower and Barranco Camp

After breakfast, leave Shira 2 and hike toward Lava Tower — a key acclimatization point. This section has many ups and downs; you may feel the altitude. You should spend at least 1–2 hours high at Lava Tower (~4,600 m / 15,091 ft), including lunch, to help your body adjust.

Then you descend to Barranco Camp. Ahead lies the famous Barranco Wall, which you climb the next morning. The wall looks dramatic from below but follows a non-technical hiking trail.

Trekking time: 6–8 hours | Distance: ~12 km (7.4 mi)

Day 4: Barranco Wall to Karanga Camp

Early start and breakfast, then ascend the Barranco Wall. We recommend leaving camp early to avoid congestion from other groups. The wall usually takes about an hour; it is a hike, not a climb. Afterward, rest and photograph Kibo across the valley.

Continue over rolling terrain to Karanga Camp. After a warm lunch and a short rest, complete an acclimatization hike toward Barafu with a modest gain, then return to Karanga.

Please note: Acclimatization walks are a core part of summit success — follow your guide's pace.

Acclimatization hike: Karanga (~3,995 m) toward a point en route to Barafu (~4,335 m) — about 2.5 km, 1–2 hours.

Trekking time (main): 4–5 hours | Distance: ~5 km (3.1 mi)

Day 5: Karanga to Barafu Camp

After a warm breakfast, hike to Barafu Summit Camp — the last camp before Uhuru. Your crew prepares tents and sleeping gear so you can rest. Hydrate, eat, and sleep in the afternoon; the summit push normally starts around midnight.

Trekking time: 4–5 hours | Distance: ~6 km (3.7 mi)

Day 6: Uhuru Peak and descent to Millennium Camp

You leave Barafu at night for the final ascent to Uhuru Peak (5,895 m / 19,340 ft). The climbing is technically straightforward, but altitude makes every step harder. Typically two climbers share one guide on summit night for closer monitoring.

After the summit, you may view nearby ice, then descend to Barafu for a rest, and continue down to Millennium Camp in the forest.

Please note: The majority of injuries on Kilimanjaro happen on the descent — watch your footing and protect your toes.

Trekking time: 8–12 hours | Distance: ~15 km (9.3 mi)
